She's Just a Little Different From The Others That I Know.

Duet.

Lyric by GEORGE ADE.

Omee-Ome and Spangle.

Music by
GUSTAV LUDERS.

In a wood lived Brother Rab-bit, of a most flir-ta-tious hab-it
Brother Rab-bit doubt-less knew some friends who came with fac-es grew-some

He would wag his ears at ev'-ry Hun-ny that he'd meet.
Say-ing to him "Well, old man, it seems a great mis-take,

Copyright MCMIV by M. Witmark & Sons.
International Copyright Secured.
No one in the world of fashion, Thought him capable of passion,
For this most designing Bunny simply took you for your money,

Till one day he up and took a little wife so sweet.
We are sorry you have made this matrimonial break?

On the wedding day his sister met the happy bride and kissed her,
I suppose that each relation showed a certain hesitation,

But like every sister she was doubtful of the match.
When it came to throwing rice and wishing longest life.
For she whispered to her brother, "She have married any other,
And when I, like Brother Rabbit, seek your hand and quickly grab it,
She is not entitled to the season's only catch."
All my friends will wonder why I chose you for my wife.

Brother Rabbit simply said; "She's the one I want to wed,
To these skeptics I will say "She has won my heart away;"

And to all who ask me why, I can only make reply, "She's
And if you would ask me why, I can only make reply,"

6172 a
Refrain.

just a lit - tle dif - ferent from the oth - ers that I know. Her smile is more be - guil - ing and her voice is soft and low. No oth - er may dis - cov - er why I dote up - on her so, She's just a lit - tle dif - ferent from the oth - ers that I know. She's oth - ers that I know.