Allegretto

Rugged and lone thro' the great un-known, is the path of the Pioneer.
No blood was spilt when the bridge we built, but we looked in the face of death.

Victories won neath snow or sun is the song of the Engineer.
Flags were waved when the pass we braved where the boldest held his breath.

Perils did on the mountain side.
Danger in deeps below.
Never a word for the toll incurred.
Never a hint of fear.
