The Ashes Of My Heart

Words by JEFF BRANEN

Music by ARTHUR LANGE

Andante

Piano

The day is dying,
Among the roses,

the years are flying,
where love resides,

The while I'm sighing,
My heart discloses,

Copyright 1916 by The Joe Morris Music Co., 445 W. 45th St., New York, N.Y.
The Publishers reserve the right to the use of this Music or Melody for any Mechanical Instruments.
International Copyright Secured. All Rights Reserved. Albert & Son, Australian Agents, Sydney.
because of you.
what you should know.
I'm sad and lonely,
A lone I sigh, dear,

I'm thinking only
For you and I, dear;
Of someone's eyes of Once loved each other

blue;
so.
' Twas in the long ago.

Of someone's kisses, too.

Chorus.

In the ashes of my heart.
Fires of

J.M.Co. 508-4
love no longer burn, Still it seems I feel a start At the thought of your return. Tho' it's years since last we met And were doomed to live apart, There's a spark of hope still burning. But it's buried somewhere. In the ashes of my heart.