Making of a Girl

Lyrics by Harold Atteridge

Allegro moderato

All performing and mechanical reproducing rights reserved.

Music by Sigmund Romberg
and George Gershwin

Ev'ry girl is made,

more or less,

By her knowledge of how to dress;

It's just a question of what she will put on,

Copyright, 1916, by G. Schirmer
It all depends on the clothes that she may don.

You can tell by the fashion-books. The way to fix a girlie's looks. For when in fashion, you must know the tricks. And just like a chef you mix.
REFRAIN

You take a pretty shoe, With a style that's new; Then you must mix it up with a hat; Then the lingerie comes in after that; And then to make the con-co-

- tion seem pat, You add some silly stockings, Then you _add a pretty dress._ Don't use the dress, though, to excess;  And then you stir them round,

_And behold! what's found—_ You will find that you have made a pretty girl.  girl.