The Dreamy Parisian Croon

Lyric and Music
By E. Ray Goetz

They've written songs about each melody that's catchy, They've written croony tunes, spoony tunes, Moon- y tunes: The public likes them. I know of one, a catch-y air that they have o-ver-looked some-how. The theme of the song just seems to be-long To the sort they're writ-ing now; A French-y air, and ev-ry heart twould beguile, Were it writ-ten some-what on this style:

REFRAIN

"Je sais que vous ete jo-lie," That dream-y sym-phony From far Par-ee just clings to me. "Je sais que vous ete jolie,"

That love-al-lur-ing mel-o-dy so su-gar-y,
Is like a ton-ic, ev-ry note sym-phen-ic; When it's played in man-ner grand-io-so. You start to learn it right a-way, On you it seems to grow so;
And ev-ry morn-ing, night and noon, Ev-ry note of the tune Your heart's repeat-ing through, Beating to the Dream-y Par-iss-i-an Croon. "Je Croon."
