Delicately

warm

Of golden, dancing butterflies and glow-worms dim and green,

Of fairies dancing in a ring around their sparkling fairy queen; Of golden dancing butterflies and glow-worms dim and green, Of fairies dancing in a ring around their sparkling queen.

All the beauty of the world and that of dreams come true, I would fashion into a song And sing at last to you: Ah!

I would weave a song to sing at last, to you!
