A LESSON IN FLIRTATION.

LOW VOICE.

Words by HARRY B. SMITH.

Music by LUDWIG.

Allegretto.

Bertha.

Art is ever present in whatever may be pleasant, Whether music or only love.

Officers.

We've always been considered ever in all love affairs whatever, We will prove.

Copyright, 1905, by Edward Schuberth & Co.

E. S. & Co. 3861

Public performance in Theatres and Music Halls not permitted without consent.
Just a bit of flirting is exceedingly diverting If you know how it should be done.

Now we are eager quite for learning, For a lesson we are yearning. Give us one, dear,
If you will give us a lesson We, to learn, will do our very best.

give you education In art of mild flirtation But I won’t teach the rest.

Assuming then we meet with a girl, A beauty and she sets the brain a whirl.

void unseemly starring and military airs, Be sympathetic, that’s the game.
she should drop her handkerchief, you pick it up so gracefully, return it with a bow and smile.

And when the article returning, can we sigh a bit with yearning in this style?

Talk about the weather, that is always entertaining and a little bit of gossip will not hurt; and if she'll descend to take your arm, Ad-
1. You are going just a bit too far. No, I think I'll keep you as you are. (That's a thing that you're supposed to steal.)

2. You would in-ex-pe-ri-ence re-

1. Take my arm and pro-me-nade with me.
2. What if we should ask of you a kiss?

Ex-cuse me!
That's cer-tain! Ex-cuse me!
Ah! how

That's cer-tain! Teach us
dolce.
You are learning much too fast I see,
And nice a little stroll would be!
how we ought to steal a kiss.
Yes very rapid pupils you will be.
ex pert we'll be.
DANCE.
dolce.
dolce.