YOU'RE DRIFTING FURTHER FROM ME, DAY BY DAY.

Words by
FREDERICK H. SCOTT.

Music by
CHAS. N. DANIELS.
Composer of "You tell me your dream" etc.

Andante moderato.

Scarcely a year has pass'd, my darling, since we plight-ed our love troth, by the
I know you'll find, in future years, where e're your lot be cast, that river on that cool, September night; And the mine has been a love, steadfast and true; For Copyright 1899 by Western Music Pub. Co.

stars in Heaven called the angels sweet forget-me-nots, look'd time will tell its story, and your heart will own the truth, that down in joy and bless'd the sacred sight. I little thought in one short year your I have loved you better than you knew. I only wish you happiness in love for me would wane, and we would reach the parting of the way, all the years to come, because my thoughts will be of you always,
breaks my heart to say it, but 'tis best that we should part,
breaks my heart to say it, but 'tis best that we should part,

Your drifting etc. 3.
rit.

cause your drifting from me, day by day.
cause your drifting from me, day by day.

rit.

CHORUS:

You are drifting farther from me day by day, and we have reached the parting of the way; With a heart that's crushed and broken, I return your ring, love token because you're drifting from me day by day.

D.C.

D.C.

Your drifting etc. 3.